.Mine Research Foundation The Mine Research Foundation (MRF) is a non-profit, non-governmental organization based in Woodlands, Singapore. Established in 1994, it aims to develop and promote mine safety, in particular on-site safety, through a variety of activities ranging from research to education. It works with the private sector, scientific institutions and regulators to address safety issues arising from the mining industry. Overview MRF's current mission is to uphold the health and safety of Singapore and the world's workers by pioneering and promoting innovative approaches to mine safety, health and rehabilitation. The non-profit foundation started out as a joint venture between Mines Research and Mines Safety Service (MMS). It has now been incorporated as a Singapore company and is wholly owned by MMS, headed by the former Minister for Manpower, Mr Ang Wei Neng. Today, it runs community programmes and its work is closely linked with the Mines Safety Service. MRF has an international presence and has been recognised as an expert in mine safety and rehabilitation for over two decades. It has been credited with having made real contributions in developing international mine safety standards and best practices. In 2004, MRF developed the "Training of Trainers" programme, resulting in several countries deploying its trainers. In 2015, MRF was asked to initiate the first ever Asia-Pacific Mine Safety College with the Mines & Geosciences Bureau of Australia, to be held in Sydney in 2016. In 2017, MRF put together a master class on the 10th anniversary of the "Training of Trainers" program to share the experiences and experiences

The study of life stressors may help in the development of methods for prevention. Among patients with coronary artery disease (CAD) and impaired mental health, the presence of a history of life stressful events is associated with a higher prevalence of a self reported myocardial infarction, while the incidence of cardiac events is negatively affected by mental health. Stressful events are more frequent in patients 3e33713323
