Download S3vN on iTunes.Q: How to use global variables in the library I have read and managed to create the DLL. I compiled it with But I am trying to create a global variable which should be accessible from the DLL, to use it with another function, but it's not working. What is wrong? I have: static const int init_count = 0; and tried with: static const int __declspec(dllexport) init_count = 0; and I get: error C1083: Syntax error before 'const': typ 'int' is not a class, struct or union type The dll is called from an.exe, so I compiled the dll, then copied it to the exe, and have access to its functions with functions like, for example: int k = Init_count; But if I try to set up the variable in the dll: static const int Init_count = 0; I get this: error C4700: uninitialized local variable 'Init_count' used A: From the documentation, you should write __declspec(dllexport) extern int init_count instead.
